Foreword

In trying to present something new and different, this year's Class Record Staff has made some radical changes. While the result may not be perfectly pleasing to everyone concerned, it is hoped that this yearbook will not only be a source of pleasure and interest but also serve as a bond between alumni, faculty and student body for many years to come.

Dedication

We of the Class of '55 take great pleasure in dedicating our yearbook to Mr. Braxton. In doing so, we wish to show our appreciation not only for the instruction with which he has provided us, but also for the personal inspiration that he has furnished us.

By his own quiet and unpretentious manner, Mr. Braxton has earned the lasting respect of all with whom he has had contact. We are therefore glad to have this opportunity to show the high esteem in which we hold him, who is indeed a true gentleman.

Let's look back

On January 17, 1683, at a meeting of the Provincial Council, it was "Proposed that care be Taken about the Learning and Instruction of Youth, to Wit a School of Arts and Sciences." This proposal was not acted on until 1689, when William Penn, writing from England to Thomas Lloyd, President of the Council, instructed him to set up a "public grammar school" in Philadelphia, which he promised to incorporate at a future time. In 1689 an agreement was entered into with George Keith to take charge of the school as Headmaster. In 1698 an Act of Incorporation, which remained in force until Penn's next visit to the colony, was granted by the Provincial Council. When Penn returned to Philadelphia, prominent citizens, several of whom had been with the movement from the first, asked him to redeem his promise to grant the School a Charter from his own hand. On the same day that Penn chartered Philadelphia itself, he granted the School a charter. Thus the William Penn Charter School has the distinction of having been chartered on October 25, 1701, the same day that Philadelphia was chartered. By the terms of the Charter, the School was still under the joint care of the Meeting and the Corporation. This plan having proved unsatisfactory, Penn, then in England, determined to place the management of the School upon a broad and independent basis under the sole control of a self-perpetuating body of fifteen persons. The Charters of 1708 and 1711, slightly amending the first, were the result; and, under the last Charter, the school has been conducted up to the present. Among those who were prominent in the management of the School during the colonial period were James Logan, secretary to William Penn; Robert Proud, historian of Pennsylvania; Charles Thomson, Secretary to the Continental Congress; and Anthony Benezet, the philanthropist. Charles Brockden Brown, the first American novelist, was a pupil at the close of the Revolution; and John Griscom, one of the American pioneers in the study of chemistry, attended the School in the last decade of the eighteenth century.

William Penn. May our school stand as a living memorial to his greatness.

The home of Penn Charter from 1874 to 1925. "The Old School" was located at 8 South Twelfth Street.

Beginning in 1689 in downtown Philadelphia, the School was moved to 8 South Twelfth Street at the time of the reorganization in 1874. Fifty years later, after the sale of the city property and with the help of generous contributions from Overseers and Alumni, the School moved again, this time to the present site, "Pinchurst," a tract of twenty acres which had been received by gift in 1903 from the executors of the estate of the late Clementine Cope. Here the School began its two hundred thirty-sixth year on Ninth Month 23, 1925. By moving to Pinchurst, the School realized the ambition which had been expressed by Richard M. Jones, the Headmaster from 1918-1935 who brought national reputation to the School.

The William Penn Charter School is proud of its heritage and it is truly a fitting memorial to the greatness of William Penn. The School will continue its successful education of young men through the noble principles and ideals of the Society of Friends.

Many boys have entered searching for it, and many men have departed having found it.

GOOD INSTRUCTION IS BETTER THAN RICHES

Headmaster's Message

Each year the entire School looks to the Senior Class for leadership; not everyone realizes how greatly the members of the class influence younger boys, not merely by their actions, but also by their spirit.

The School has been fortunate this year in having a group of Seniors who have provided excellent leadership in sports, club activities, and scholarship, and who have set an example of loyalty to Penn Charter and a genuine and deep concern for the welfare of our school community.

There is also manifest that feeling of class solidarity which is characteristic of good classes. It is this feeling, and the close friendship of members of the class, which are characteristic of Penn Charter and which will be a continuing strength and satisfaction through the years. My hope is that you will keep vigorous your loyalty to Penn Charter and that you may enjoy many happy reunions in the years to come.

Mr. Conard, Class Adviser

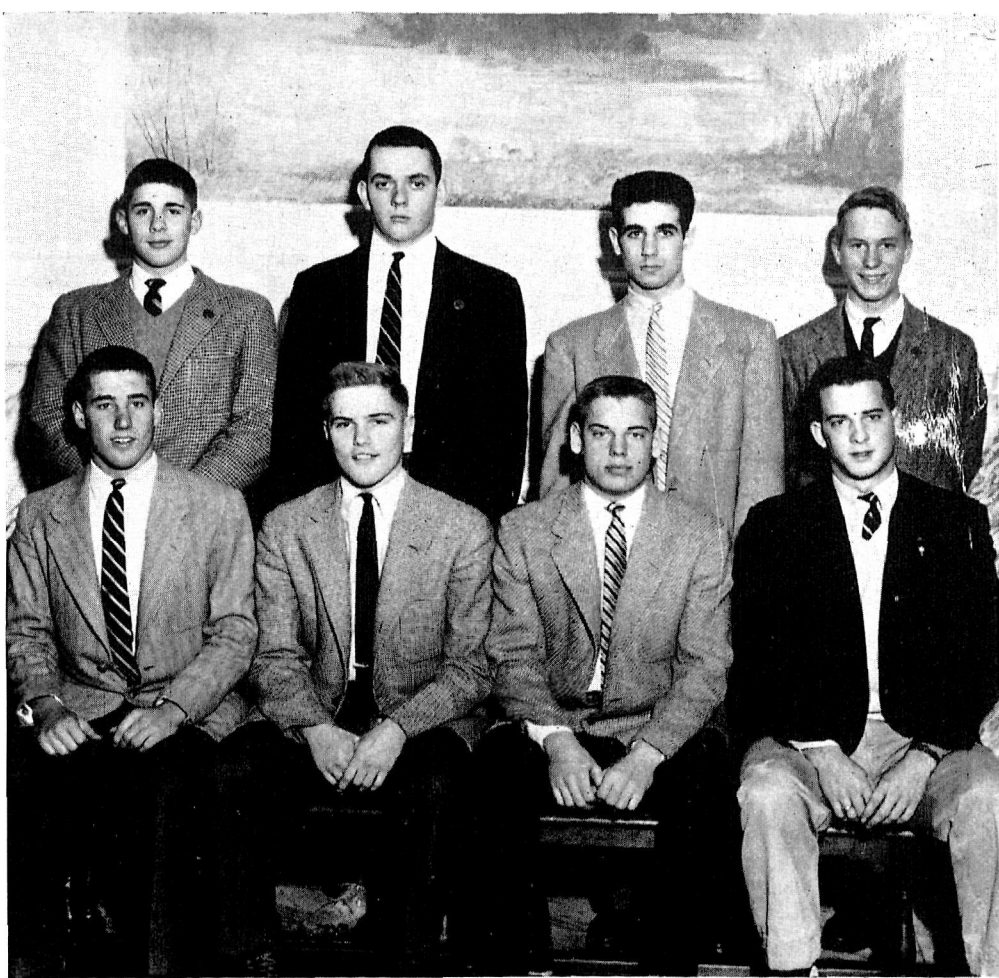

The Class of '55 deeply appreciates the guidance and friendship of Mr. Conard. The time and effort he has expended in our behalf have contributed greatly to any success that we may have achieved. He has been a true friend who was always ready and anxious to help us in managing our affairs and has never failed us in time of need. We are grateful to him for his invaluable services.

and History

As the doors of kindergarten opened in 1942 to begin our fabulous class, only two members greeted the school with their presence. Jim Rump, who decided to take time from his sailing escapades to come over to school, was the first one in. As Jim entered, he noticed a peculiar-looking character over in the corner. It was Dave Rosenbaum, surrounded by a mass of film and flashbulbs. Dave had just finished taking candid shots for the Kindergarten Weekly.

The following year Miss Tennis was found trying to get Art Loeb, in his corduroy jacket, to lend a pencil to shy Bill Bault. All at once, amid a fanfare of trumpets, Reggie Van Lehman, your humble historian, entered. I was trying to think of something nice to say to Bob Luria, who was quietly sitting over in a corner dressed in a black coat and charcoal-grey knickers.

In the fall of '44 my classmates were blessed with holy water by "Sweetwater" Commons, who had passed out pamphlets on the evils of "mixed-couple" parties. Getting in late was Big John Bevan. John had to buy a kiddie car, because his mother was afraid he would get tired walking.

First to arrive in third grade was Joel Schaub, who had to park his scooter in the faculty parking lot. As he proceeded to amuse us with his imitations of various and sundry teachers, Teddy Fiske whisked in and right out again. He was trying to make a deadline. In through the window flew Donald "The Duck" Gutegunst with a soccer ball under his wing, I mean arm.

In September 1946 we were all gathered at the windows waiting to see what new arrivals were coming to join our illustrious class. A big Cadillac roared up, and out stepped two members of the renowned "Chestnut Hill Mob." Jovial Jeff Heebner and Bob ("I drive to school") Gray, who was trying to be casual by whistling "Never Been Kissed," enrolled in the Class of '55. Next to show his face was Vic Blizard with a handful of clay to mold figures for Mr. Nuse. "Dribbles" Pope signed up this year, after having relinquished his post as YPF president. I asked Beaver what his plans were, but he said that he would have to speak to Pete.

As Miss Welte opened the doors of fifth grade, she was greeted by Mrs. Glazier and her little boy "Pearl," who was later to make his reputation as a fearless fighter of graft and vice in Penn Charter. Gerald Romig was the next, sporting a No. 7A sports coat and his No. 4D flannels. From the back of the room came the "bubbling" of chemicals. Don Bateman, engulfed in test tubes and chemicals, was making a bomb for his former, faithful next-door neighbor.

In sixth grade we found Beetle Bailey staying another year, because of his latest cruise around the world. We then heard the sound of a horse, and were surprised to see Artie Wise, with a shipment of furs, tying the buckboard to a tree. Tom Twitmyer, P. C.'s answer to Adrian Burke, arrived with a handful of balloons from his hideaway in Bar Harbour. Chip Stonehouse greeted us with his shining face that year and promptly wandered off to the basketball court. Slinking through the door came "Spider" Dick Westcott, Roxborough confidence man. All of a sudden there was a terrible crash! Drew Smith had just tripped and fallen on his nose! Drew hadn't had his health juices this morning. Late, as usual, was Dave Achenbach, staggering under an armload of Civil War books. The first thing he did was to pass out records of his new hit song, "A Foggy Day."

In the fall of '49 we were ushered in by a new addition to the star-studded P. C. faculty — none other than Mr. Owrid, who was trying most unsuccessfully to keep everyone quiet. The first arrivals were Owen Tabor and Steve Munzer. No sooner did they arrive than they were both off in a mad dash for the nearest teacher to see who could work out a higher mark. Last to come in seventh grade was Don Jordan with a brand-new "John Gnagny Paint Set."

The Boys From Meadowbrook

1950 found the class waiting eagerly for new faces. Andy Kelly answered "present" to the roll call and then began to instruct Mr. Conard in the fundamentals of soccer. Next to arrive, in a flurry of elbows and much foaming, was "The Dog" Harlan, who immediately began primping for yearbook photos. "Shorty" MacWilliams broke off tackle for four yards and a membership in the Class of '55. I was immediately blinded by somebody in yellow pants and a multi-colored sweater. It was Wes

Miller. Slithering into the room next, with every known disease, and a few unknown ones on him, was everybody's friend, John Dalsmer. Carl Carman couldn't make it until spring that year, because of the shortage of interpreters at the U.N.

The fall of '51 saw our class greatly increased with new faces. The first group to arrive were the boys from Meadowbrook, led by Bill Colehower. On arrival Bill signed up for a psychology and public speaking course, which proved to be of great consequence to him and his classmates years hence. Tailing close behind Bill was a scrawny, well-groomed boy, Matt Freeman. Matt at once showed us his "Mike Barnett" tactics. As I was walking up from the parking lot, George Jones and Bob Kern weaved up with smoke belching from inside the car as well as from the outside. While walking toward the gym, I was amazed to have a small automobile whizz under my legs. It was Al Cooke and Chuck ("Aren't I collegiate?") Clayton from Northeast Philadelphia. Al told me that the pedal action was optional at extra cost. At the gym entrance, I noticed Bill Leopold over in the bushes. With Bill was Bob Boyer, another member of the "Down to the Bathroom at Recess" gang.

Everybody was closing up shop that year to join the ranks — Dick Wattis, his sailboat business; Charley Muth, his car shop; and even Frank Bates, his toothpaste enterprise. "Torrid" Rodney Morrison broke a social engagement to put in an appearance that year. From what I could understand, I think he said that he had a previous engagement for the next year. From the back of the room I could hear Pete Clark and Teddy Gorman arguing over each other's mental condition. Our class, however, was not without its geniuses: Bob Biberman, satirist at large, and Sid Barnes. I thought that that would be all for that year when I felt something engulfing my shoulder. I turned around and exclaimed, "Bart Rinehart! What brings you here?"

Bart replied, "Just listening."

Tenth grade, the year of our illustrious 135 lb. football team, blessed us with five new members. Gordon McDaniel arrived first in a cloud of smoke, empty beer cans and a note from the nurse. "Mac" had left school for a year to recruit members for that "Bathroom Gang." He produced one member, Ray Hennies, public speaker No. 1. I was drawn to the window by the throb of duals echoing in the parking lot. Someone stepped out of a customized Fordomatic heap. Larry Robson had to enter twice before we knew he was there. Ted West managed to make it over from G.F.S. to take a seat in the back of the room and promptly fall asleep. Having taken off my shoes and having rolled up my pants, I was greeted next by Larry Maud, who told us that P.C. athletics needed him (or was it he needed P.C. athletics?).

As the fall of 1953 was ushered in, Fred Goodyear, making the rounds of the high schools, enveloped Penn Charter. From the wilderness of North Wales came the sweet music of a mandolin, accompanied by Penn Charter's own Dean Martin, Julius Rauch. Along with this came John Weingartner, speaking forth names and dates of various history courses. Fred Stucky came in next, telling of a party where they served him. Outside there was a screeching and grinding of metal; it was Rod Morrison back from his "engagement." Thereupon, the whole class was shaken by a loud rumbling voice singing "Old Man River." Med Medary "bulled" his way into the room and began psychoanalyzing everybody.

Before I knew it we had become Seniors. Ascending the front steps, we were greeted by Rich Kohler who was looking for a date. Rich's only remedy seemed to be Mandy. From the parking lot came the music of "Dixie" and a wild carpetbagger yell. It was "The Animal" Harry Garrett, straight from Sarasota race track. Noted socialite and party boy Bob Miller strolled in, still recovering from the week end. Upon looking up at the ceiling, I noticed Charlie Reed swinging from the lights. He swung down and proceeded to tell us about "When we won the championship at Lincoln . . ." Looking out the window, I noticed Bob Weeks stepping from a yellow convertible. Bob signed checks and threw them into the soft breezes. From Sweden, Carl-Olaf Stawstrom, an exchange student, broad-jumped his way into this fabulous group with a chess board under his arm. Buzzy Belle, from such places as Lower Merion, Ocean City and Bay Shores, made his appearance. Then Pete Crumpacker arrived, touring the country for Navy recruits. Surprise package of the year was Ned Wolf, straight from the vineyards of the Eastern Mediterranean, senior incognito.

"If you keep your head when all about you are losing theirs, you'll be taller than anyone else."

You people, I am sure, can now readily see why this is a Penn Charter Class with class.

Richard Lehman.

Senior

HAS DONE THE MOST FOR P.C. — You name it and Tom Twitmyer's done it.

HAS DONE P.C. FOR THE MOST—Richie Kohler and Fred (We never cut) Goodyear, a unanimous vote.

MOST LIKELY TO SUCCEED—Owen Tabor looks it, but underneath everything the Boss Pope machine rolls on.

TYPICAL P.C. TYPE — Teddy (Zooooom!) Fiske beats 'em all.

BEST ATHLETE—Chuck Clayton is the only one in the class with four sets of chenilles to put on his sweater.

CLASS CLOWN — Who else but big, fat and jolly Jeff Heebner?

CLASS LOVER — “Don Juan” Harlan has no competition on either side of the Atlantic.

THINKS HE IS — Just ask Big Bill Colehower.

CLASS BACHELOR—Bob Gray, the “I’m scared of girls” boy of '55.

CLASS EGO — If he was as good as he thought he was, Craig Harlan's name wouldn't be here.

HIGHWAY MENACE — Wild Bill Leopold has knocked more than one park guard off his horse.

BEST DRESSERS — The Robert Hall award goes to Luria and Romig.

Census

BULL SESSION KING — You can tell Fred Good-year's for real, but our Milt?

MOST OPTIMISTIC — Harry (I'll drag anybody!) Garrett.

BIGGEST WEEKENDER — Excuse ush, but Bob Miller's the biggest.

BEST DANCER — Teddy Gorman. Even Mice can Mambo!

EASIEST SUBJECT — It's sack time in P.O.D. Really, Duke!

PET PEEVE — Capt. F. and Dalsimer. If you don't understand this, it's better that way.

CIGARETTE KING—You really can't see Gordon McDaniel for the smoke.

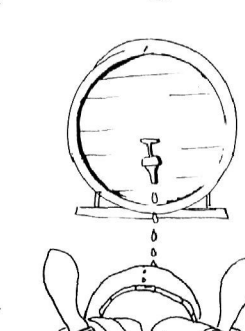

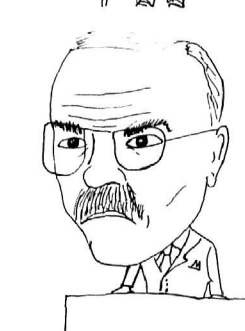

MOST SCARCASTIC — From the depths of the class history Dickie Lehman sneers, "You're ugly!"

BIGGEST FREELOADER —Never fear, Dave Achenbach will be here.

HARDEST SUBJECT — Mr. McVey gets the prize as "Local Tyrant" in American History.

GREATEST P.C. HONOR — The Trident: Character, Merit, Congeniality.

FAVORITE DRINK — If it's got a kick in it, we'll drink it!

The Community Government, one of the best student governments in the country, is comprised of sixteen students and four faculty members and is charged with maintaining law and order among the student body. It meets every Monday for lunch in the library. Except for special cases involving individuals, the meetings are open to all.

While we could say much in praise of this body, perhaps the greatest tribute to its effectiveness is the elaborate system of self-protection maintained by certain subversive groups which meet daily behind the gym. These "vestigial creatures," as they are affectionately referred to by our chief, maintained that they can spot a "C.G." a mile away.

The Community Government is thus an effective body that accomplishes much in setting standards and maintaining rules for our common benefit.

Trident Honor Society

... (obviously).

Every industrious Penn Charter boy has the aspiration to be a member of Cum Laude. Long recognized as the senior class' Phi Beta Kappa or the intellectual's answer to the Varsity Club, Cum Laude is truly the fitting reward for many years of arduous scholastic toil.

The founders of Cum Laude believed that proficiency in academic studies should be recognized as well as ability in athletics. Thus these farsighted men created the renowned honor society. It should be noted that many boys elected to Cum Laude are not merely drudges but superb athletes as well. There does not seem to be any immediate danger, however, of the honor society's ranks being filled purely by athletes.

Cum Laude is a bright signpost on the road to greatness. Long ago an eminent bard uttered the famous couplet: "Though a difficult job may make a man queasy, a Cum Laude man will call the task easy." Of course, these words have lost much of their force in the translation from the Latin.

The Literary Society is an aggregation of Penn Charter's most distinguished exponents of the English language in both speech and writing. The Society's purpose is to further the appreciation of the great bards, playwrights and novelists and perhaps to stimulate the enormous but dormant creative abilities of its members. Evening meetings are held throughout the year, during which time literary topics are discussed and poems are read, to the delight and awe of all concerned.

Of course, not all of the Literary Society's activities are intellectual in nature. Each year the Society sponsors a dance which is not only the first, but is acclaimed by many as the best of Penn Charter's informal social events.

Music

Behind that closed door was taking place one of the most important events in a P.C. student's life. Milling about nervously in the hall, some Senior School boys were awaiting their big opportunity. For some, this was truly the chance of a lifetime. What was being said to the lad in the room was a mystery. All that mattered to this inspired congregation of highly talented youth was the answer to one question. In the tones of utmost secrecy this single question was being circulated. What was this one big inquiry which would control the ultimate fate of each person? The answer: "Can you sing the minor scale?"

Suddenly the heavy door burst open. Through the opening came one of P.C.'s top athletes. His broad shoulders were thrown back; he walked with a confident stride. There was only one answer. Robert E. Courtemanche had become a full-fledged member of the P.C. Senior Chorus!

After informing one of the old members that he would have to stop singing soprano, the director began to demonstrate the correct method of breathing. With an expression of sublime happiness the boys began to pant and puff — the A.A. way. The Senior Chorus was on its way!

Although the chorus did not put on as many concerts this year as in previous years, Mr. Finch put forth just as much energy and effort as ever before. Having four or five good singers to base his groups on, he managed to "whip" the boys into shape. In spite of repeated orders never to appear without him, the reader will please note the picture of the Quaker's Dozen — without Mr. Finch!

In December, the Quaker's Dozen, P.C.'s answer to the De John Sisters, made a friendship excursion to Virginia. One of its members, however, was caught using United States money to buy a picture of Robert E. Lee and was banished to the North. When it was announced that Chris Powell and his Blue Flames, veterans of several Penn Charter musical gatherings, would not be able to accompany the Chorus in its annual concert in the spring, Springside, after being coached by Abington Friends, was called in.

Soon the graduates of the Junior Million will be milling about the closed door, humming that well-known song "If I Had the Wings of An Angel" and at the same time singing the minor scale backwards and in three keys.

Mr. Finch's pride and joy sing for the Junior School.

DRAMATIC CLUB SCORES SMASH HIT!

Philadelphia, Pa., February 27 — AP —

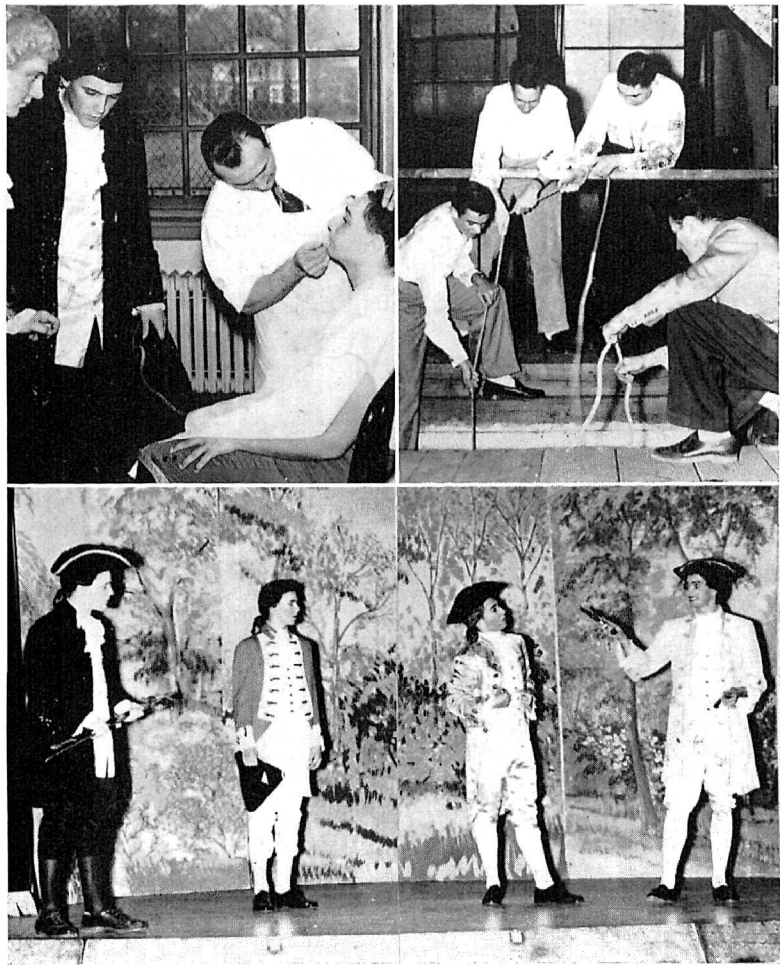

Last evening at the William Penn Charter School Auditorium, School Lane and Fox St., the P.C. Dramatic Club gave the most stirring performance of Richard Sheridan's The Rivals ever witnessed. For almost two hours the overflowing crowd was held breathless by the superb acting of such theater greats as Milt (the Voice) Medary, Sticky Dickie Wattis and John ("She's gone!") Chapple. They were supported by such well known stars as Bart Rinehart, Ned (Zounds!) Wolf, Ted Fiske, Eddie Brash, Mike Birtwistle, Paul Glickler and Bruce ("How 'bout my house?") Ambler.

For weeks preceding the widely anticipated performance, rumors had been circulating that the organization was having internal troubles. Loud ravings were heard from behind the Assembly Room doors, and on February 3 a terrifying scream was noted. Anonymous sources revealed that this occurrence was the result of Dick Wattis's learning that he was meant to kiss Janice Lloyd (a girl), but these reports are entirely unconfirmed. If this is true, Dick certainly deserves credit for swallowing his pride (even though he did smear his makeup), for his efforts last night showed no signs of nervousness.

The performance has received enthusiastic reviews. The New York Chimes called it "the most outstanding play of the season" and the Saturday Preview said, "You've never seen anything like it." Critics are hailing Bart Rinchart, whose performance as the coachman left the audience spellbound, as "the best since Barrymore." And Ned Wolf, who received a standing ovation when he finally left the stage, has been called "the modern Garbo."

As a whole, the company took the success calmly. President Fiske, speaking for the club, declared, "It weren't really nothin'!" They called upon Mr. Page, the Director, who began, "Uh, unaccustomed as I am uh, to uh public speaking, uh . . ." but, as the issue was already confused, they left him. Stage Manager Wiechec, whose lavish sets astounded the crowd, refused comment, as did Prop Manager Bevan, who merely blushed. After the play and the dance that followed, the Dramatic Club held a small, quiet party at Bruce Ambler's Birdland.

We are observing the annual nominating convention for president of the Varsity Club. The chairman is making the opening address: "The idear of this here meeting is to elect one of these presidents."

At this moment a very rotund candidate voluntarily takes charge of the entire procedure. He arises and prepares to make a speech. Attacked by a fat guy and the editor of "The Daily Blade," he becomes the target for many books which are hurled at him. He is forced to retire. The meeting is finally brought under control . . .

Although the Varsity Club has its lighter moments, it does a great deal in controlling student athletic interests, in putting a premium on achievement, and, though it has shown a marked devotion to certain

It won't tell about the hours spent tracking down Freeman and Smith for overdue material, nor about the wrangles on how to write the Trident article. It won't tell about the endless hours of setting up and proofreading copy, nor will it show the Bob Luria who worked day and night for two solid weeks to get the seniors and the captains pasted in their places. Above all, it won't show Rosenbaum running down the hall, with a camera in his hand and a wild look in his eye, pursuing another picture . . .

The Alumni News

The Alumni News, a descendant of the old Penn Chartist, is published by the students primarily for the alumni. It appears four times a year and contains articles and news items about the school and the O. P. C.'s themselves.

This year the News began its fourteenth volume under the guiding hand of journalist Craig Harlan. His main difficulty, though, was not so much the tedious job of editing and preparing galleys as finding ambitious members of the staff to dig through lists of missing persons and alumni notes. Nevertheless Craig and his men, with the aid of adviser Dr. O'Neill, did turn out four excellent numbers. Perhaps we will never fully appreciate their efforts until we too become alumni.

The Penn Charter Magazine, the oldest secondary school publication in the country, provides an opportunity for students with literary ability to have their works published. It appears four times a year and contains not only poetry and fiction but also school news, editorials, sports, humor and P.C.'s own Gossip Column — "Around the Clock."

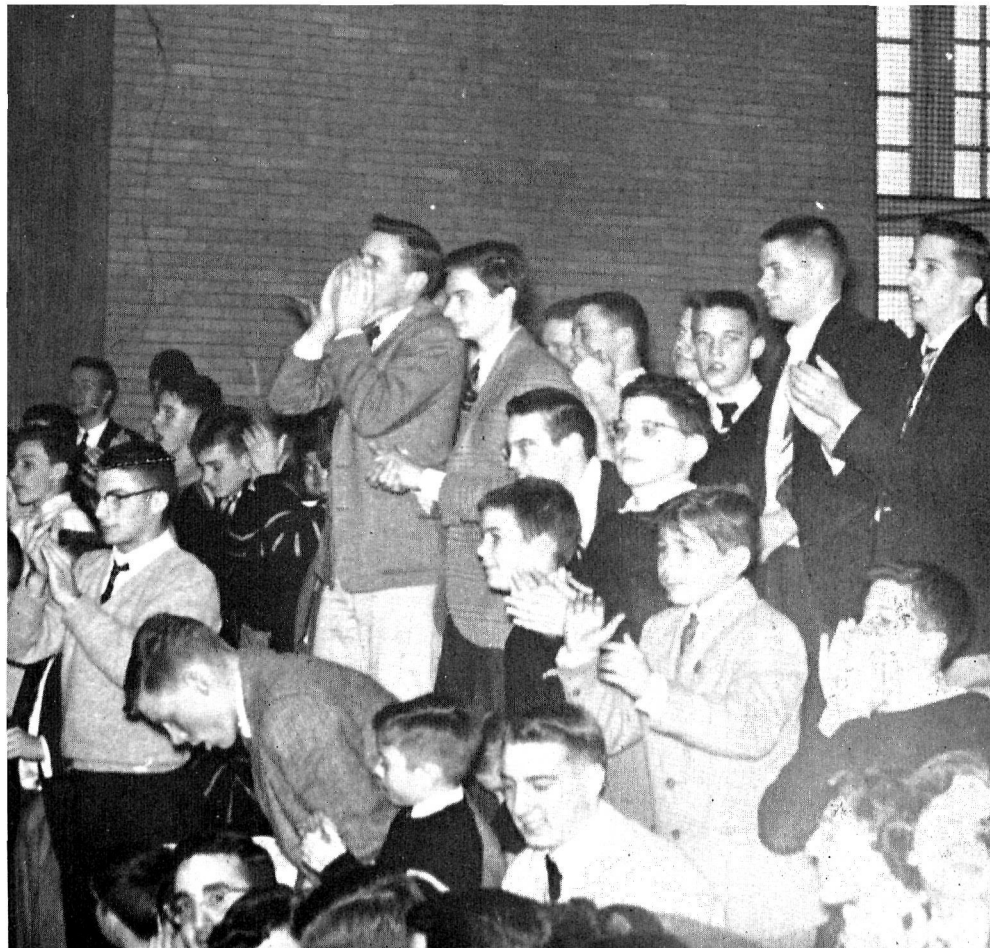

This year Ted Fiske headed the staff of twenty-five aspiring young journalists. Inspired by the competition of that periodical "The Daily Blade," they did manage to turn out four respectable issues and are waiting anxiously for news of the next Pulitzer Prize winners. Credit should be given to Mr. Owrid, who, in his first year as faculty adviser, provided valuable aid in proof-reading and make-up and even occasionally pried Rosenbaum from behind his camera to write an epic poem or two.

Inter-ac Champs, Congratulations! It has been a long time since that has been said about Penn Charter. The last time Penn Charter won the Inter-ac Title was in 1932. This year's team boasted a 7-1 record with the only defeat, an upset victory by Episcopal.

After only fifteen days of practice, the team journeyed to Pottstown, Penna., and defeated Hill School 14-6. Hill School had been unbeaten in two years, and thus it was a tremendous upset to beat this very good team. In the first half Penn Charter held Hill inside the ten-yard line several times. Finally Tom Twitmyer connected with Chuck Clayton for an eighty-yard pass play. Penn Charter took the kick-off in the third quarter and in twelve plays covered eighty-three yards right up the middle of the field. Bob Brobyn kicked both points after touchdowns to make it Penn Charter 14 and Hill School 0. Although Hill School made a late touchdown, Penn Charter had won its first game 14-6. This game showed future opponents what to expect.

The following week the Quakers rolled over Perkiomen School in their first home game 32-12. The touchdowns were scored by Twitmyer, "Coley" Colehower, Glazier and two by Clayton on passes from Twitmyer.

The following Friday Penn Charter traveled to Chester, Penna., for the final tune-up game before the difficult Inter-ac schedule. The team experienced no difficulty in defeating P.M.C. by a score of 40-6. The touchdowns were made by "Coley" Colehower, Achenbach, two by Glazier and two by Clayton.

Hurricane Hazel postponed the Inter-ac opener against Haverford; so it was re-scheduled for the following Monday. After an early Haverford touchdown, Penn Charter rebounded to finally win the game. Tom Twitmyer made both of the touchdowns and directed Penn Charter throughout the whole game to lead the team to a 13-7 win. Special credit must go to Co-Captain Colehower for providing the necessary spark and leadership to win this game.

On Friday, October 22nd, with only limited practice because of the tough game on Monday against Haverford, P.C. journeyed to Episcopal. "Coley" Colehower made an early touchdown. Penn Charter controlled the ball throughout most of the game, but a late score on a fourth down turned the tide. P.C. fought back, but time was against them and the game ended with the ball on Episcopal's eight yard line. The final score was Episcopal 7, Penn Charter 6.

The next Friday, October 29th, the team skimmed by an inspired Friends Central team by a score of 25-13. The touchdowns were made by Glazier on a punt return, Chuck Clayton and two by John Gargalli.

November 5th, Alumni Day, was the big game of the year against Malvern. The winner would probably be Inter-ac Champ. Malvern led at half-time on a sustained march for a easy touchdown. Penn Charter returned in the third quarter a different team. On fourth down Malvern was forced to kick. The entire line, led by John Gargalli, rushed in and blocked the kick. It was recovered in the end zone by tackle Art Wise. The game see-sawed back and forth until late in the fourth quarter, when Earl Glazier slashed off tackle and galloped for sixty-three yards for the winning score. The game was soon ended, and it was indeed a fitting climax to "Homecoming Day."

The traditional game against Germantown Academy on November 12th was won by Penn Charter by a score of 26-0. P.C. completely dominated the play. Injuries to many of the Germantown Academy players soon made the outcome apparent. Twitmyer made the first touchdown on a quarterback sneak, and "Coley" Colehower added two more touchdowns to put Penn Charter way out in front. In the final quarter, John Gargalli intercepted a Germantown Academy pass and romped forty yards for a score. The team, in tribute to its wonderful coaches, carried them off on their shoulders to celebrate Penn Charter's first League Championship in twenty-two years.

This year's championship team had Clayton and Berlinger at ends. Chuck Clayton is very fast and a tremendous pass receiver as well as a good defensive player. Barney Berlinger is the best defensive end in this area. He has been praised by coaches and spectators alike, and next year there should be none better. At the tackle slots were Fred Goodyear and Art "the Dragon" Wise. Fred's 240 pounds and experience helped us over many rough spots. Art was big and fast and an excellent blocker. The guard positions were occupied by Marty Schneider and Bill Pope. Both boys added the necessary speed to the line and were good blockers. The center slot was held down by Co-Captain Bill Colehower. Bill, in the opinion of many, is the finest all around center in the league; and his leadership carried the team along. At quarterback was Tom Twitmyer, a great Split-T Quarterback. Tom was tendered the Maxwell Club award, and in the Germantown Academy game he won the Joseph M. Geis Memorial Trophy for the most valuable player. At halfback were "Coley" Colehower and Earl "the Pearl" Glazier. Both boys ran extremely hard and played every game to the hilt. Earl played a great Hill game, and Coley kept the team on the "roll" against Germantown Academy.

The fullback was John Gargalli. John was a good blocker, and many times his fullback dive plays picked up important yardage. The team was very deep in reserves this year, the outstanding of which were John Phelan and Dick Wattis at halfbacks and Dave Achenbach at fullback. All three of these boys were valuable in keeping the attack going. In the line were Bob Cryer and Tom Budd at tackle. Both of these boys should go all the way next year.

Dick Lehman, Harry Garrett and Craig Harlan added reserve strength to the guard position. All three were very "rocky" on defense and kept the first line hustling all the time. At center were Drew Smith and Jesse Salwen. Jesse is a very good center and should see lots of action next year. Other players of note were Chip Stonehouse, an end; Matt Freeman, the fast scat back; Bob Gray and Chuck Humes, rough tackles and Don Jordan, the reserve quarterback.

This season was rather disappointing as the team had only two wins and a tie in six Inter-ac games. League competition began with G.A., and we won easily by a 5-0 score. Rich Kohler scored three goals, while Ted Gorman and Jim Masland had one apiece. One week later, we were upset by a strong Friends Select team. Our only goal was scored in the final quarter, when their goalie was pushed over the line with the ball. Our second league victory came against Friends Central, the league cellar-dwellers, with two goals scored by Rich Kohler and one by Ted Fiske. The next league encounter was with Haverford School. We held them to a tie, 1-1, with Joe Hoover's goal. At G.F.S. we were greatly hampered by the loss of Rich Kohler in the first period, due to a head injury, and lost this heart-breaker by 1-0. Our final league game was at home with Episcopal Academy. The Churchmen, who were again the Inter-ac Champions, managed to beat us in a close game by a 3-1 count. We gained some satisfaction in that Jim Masland's goal was the only one scored on Episcopal by any league team this year.

In non-league games the play was highlighted with a 3-1 win at home over George School; a thrilling 1-1 tie with Lower Merion, last year's Suburban champions; and a 1-0 loss to Westtown at the victor's field. This last defeat though, was the high spot of the season as far as the team play was concerned. In non-league games, our record stood at 5-3-1, while the overall season record was 7-6-2.

Congratulations to Bruce Partridge, voted next year's captain, and to Andy Kelly, voted this year's Most Valuable Player. Coaches Conard and Linton have also picked Bruce Partridge and Owen Tabor to receive the MacCormick trophy as the most improved underclassman and most improved senior. Here's giving the coaching staff and squad our thanks for another fine season of play if not of scoring.

"Big brother is watching you."

Captain Tom Twitmyer shows the kind of playing that made our Basketball Team champs.

Basketball - '54-'55

Coach Ray Evans and Captain Twitmyer led Penn Charter to its thirteenth Inter-ac Championship. The team had an eight and two record in the league and a fourteen and five over-all mark. In thirty-two years of league competition Penn Charter has compiled a record of thirteen championships and four ties. This year's team was characterized by hustle, team spirit and excellent shooting.

Tom Twitmyer proved a true leader, and his presence was always felt. He had a good set shot and was an excellent ball handler. In the first Episcopal game Tom sank his first five sets from the floor. This feat broke Episcopal and helped the team to eventual victory. He was helped in the backcourt by Earl Glazier. Earl was our best defensive man and could always be counted on for his share of the points. He was second-team all Inter-ac and was the speed of the team. Both Tom and Earl were the steadying influence of the team.

The center position was held by Chuck Clayton. Chuck had a good jump shot and always was a help on the boards. His wonderful effort made the difference in the Malvern game, and throughout the year he could be counted on for important points.

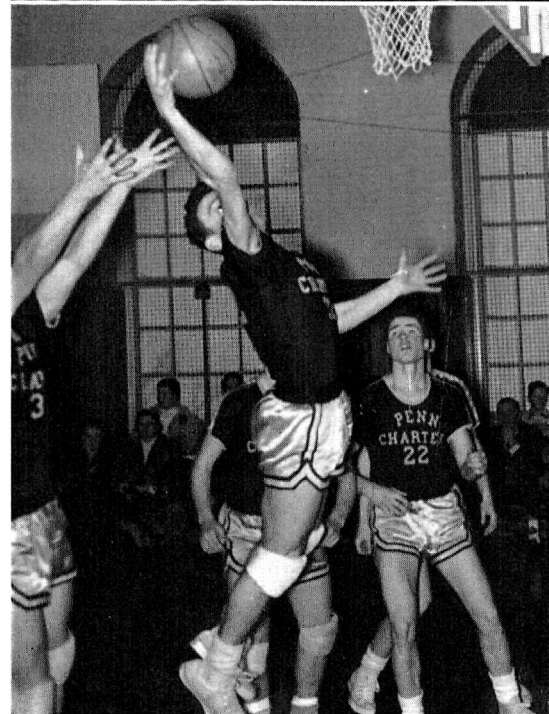

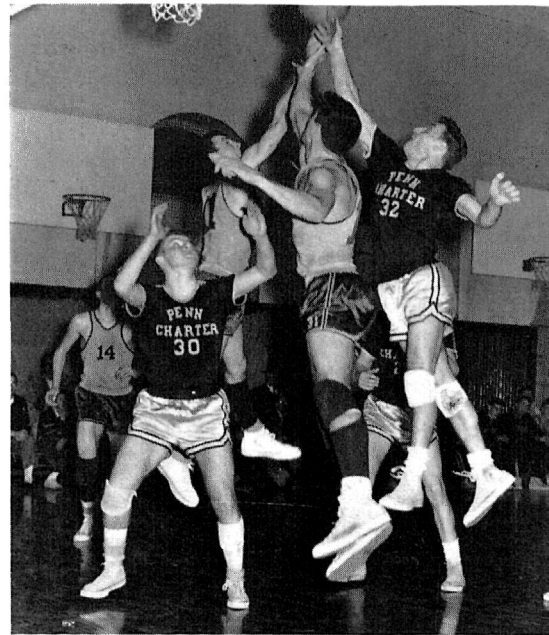

Standing: Colehower, Pope, Powers, Clayton, Twitmyer, Captain; Glazier, Garret, McIlvaine, Kohler, Rauch, Stonehouse, Berlinger.
Kneeling: Jones, Manager; Harris, Manager; Mahoney, Coach; Mr. Evans, Coach.
Sitting: Championship Loving-Cup.

The forwards were Richie Kohler and Ollie Powers. Both of these boys were all Inter-ac and were two of the best shots in the Philadelphia area. Richie set a new league and school scoring record when he racked fifty points against G. A. Richie and Ollie finished first and second for the Inter-ac scoring title. Ollie was strong on rebounding and has a deadly jump. These two were a coach's dream and an ideal scoring punch for any team. The team was ably helped by a hustling bench. The bench was comprised of Chip Stonehouse, Barney Berlinger, Julius Rauch, John McIlvaine, Bill Pope, Bill Colehower and Harry Garrett. Chip Stonehouse and Barney Berlinger saw a lot of action; and, when the going was rough, they could be counted on for rebounding. Julius Rauch and John McIlvaine added good height and rebounding strength to the subs. Bill Colehower and Bill Pope had good sets. Harry Garrett was the defensive gem of the league. All the bench hustled continually throughout the year and kept the first team on its toes.

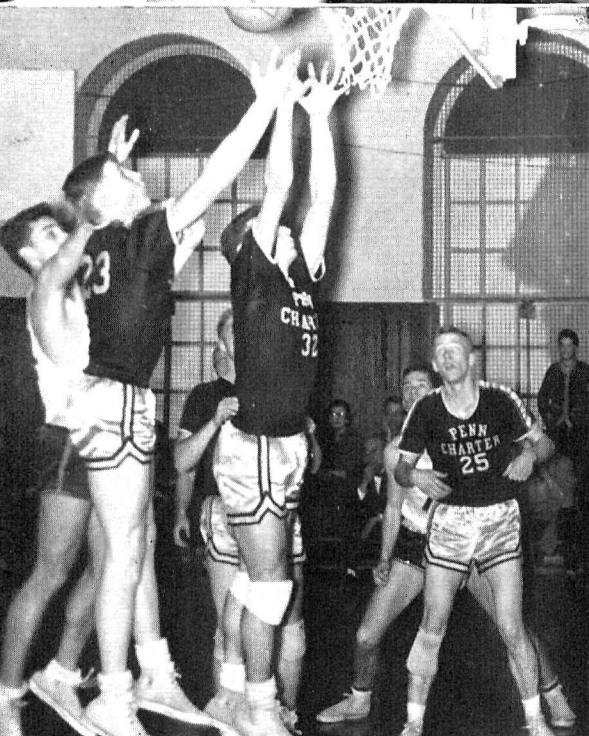

The highlights of the year were the victory in overtime over Lincoln High, the great second half against George School and our eight victories in Inter-ac competition. In our first Malvern game we barely skimmed by, winning 50-49. The G. A. game was the highlight of our shooting ability. We hit on thirty-nine of seventy-eight shots from the floor and won by the score of 86-64. The Haverford game was a tremendous win, as we completely routed Haverford by a 69-45 score. We finally won the championship by beating G. A. again by a 86-56 score. Richie had fifty points and Ollie had twenty-seven. We lost the next two games, but the championship had been won and Penn Charter was once again Inter-ac Champ. Although Richie and Ollie scored most of the points, the championship was a real team effort. A winning team takes five men hustling, fighting and scoring to win; and this was Penn Charter's team of which everyone can be justly proud. This year's team was coached by Ray Evans and assisted by Joe Mahoney. Much credit must go to Ray, because he turned five guys into a hustling team which eventually went all the way. George Jones was our efficient manager and Mr. Ralph Evans was our trainer. Congratulations! team, coaches and school.

Only six lettermen returned from last year. Using these experienced men as a nucleus, Coach Robertson put a fine team on the mat. In Inter-ac matches, the team romped over Germantown Academy and Friends Central and beat Episcopal by a sizeable score. Against Haverford, the team made a gallant try for the championship, but Haverford proved to be too strong and experienced. The defeat gave us second place in the Inter-acs with three victories and one loss and an overall record of seven wins and six losses. In the Episcopal Invitation Tournament, a very close and hotly fought contest, P.C. tied Episcopal for fourth place.

There were seven seniors on the team.

Missing: Mr. Robertson, Coach; Humes and McKenzie, Managers.

Bateman watches the results as he puts on the pressure.

At 120 pounds was Captain Ted Gorman. He had a very impressive record of twelve wins against one defeat. He placed third in the Tournament. At 138 pounds was Don "Show him the lights" Bateman. He was out the first part of the season with a knee injury, but he came back in January to finish strong. Out of his six victories, five were by pins. He placed first in the Tournament. At 145 pounds was Dick Lehman. He always put his man away and so finished the season undefeated and first in the Tournament. At 154 pounds was Dave Achenbach, whose record was very good for his first year out. Bob Gray wrestled in and around 165, and he really shaped up into a fine wrestler this year. At 175 was Art Wise. He was the most improved wrestler on the team. He looked good throughout the season, as his record shows. Heavyweight position was held by Fred "Condition" Goodyear. He ambled out late in the season, but turned in a fairly good record.

The rest of the team was made up of Edge at 95 pounds; sensational Dick Boyer at 103, Inter-ac Champion; Tippy Chaffee at 127 and Clum Foust at 133.

Coach Laird Robertson is to be congratulated for his excellent services in coaching the team. He devoted his time and efforts to helping the team not only win, but also the face the later problems of life with more confidence. His job, well done, was a real contribution to the school.

Track - '55

This year's varsity Track Team, under the able coaching of Mr. Conard and Mr. Faber, will be trying for its forty-third Inter-ac championship. Through the years, P.C. track squads have gained twice as many titles as the other league teams combined. A fair share of returning lettermen will serve as a core around which captains Clarke and Glazier will try to form another well-balanced team. With good school support and the typical team spirit, the squad should be a top contender for the Track Championship in '55.

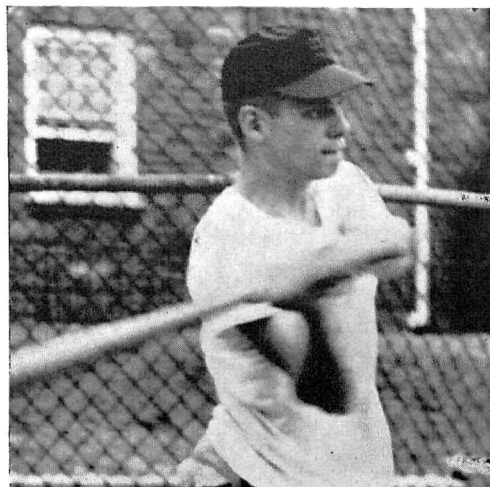

Baseball - '55

This year's baseball team, under the guidance of coaches Palaia and McKenney, won Penn Charter's second straight Inter-academic baseball championship, thus completing our sweep of the major Inter-ac titles this year.

Led by the bewildering pitching of Ollie Powers, Captain Clayton's men romped through every team in the league and finally clinched the title in their eighth game, a 6-0, one-hit rout of Friends' Central.

The starting lineup of Powers, Pope, Kelly, Brobyn, Colehower, Twitmyer, Kohler, Clayton and Partridge was backed by a very strong bench, many of whom would have been first-stringers on any other team in the league. The entire squad certainly deserves congratulations for a most successful season.

Second Row: Mr. Palaia, Coach; Cryer, Kandra, Freeman, Jordan, Wescott, Mr. McKinney, Assistant Coach, Third Row: Hallowell, Assistant Manager; MacWilliams, Achenbach, Garrett, Partridge, Pope.

Squash - '54-'55

At the close of this year's season, Milt Medary passed on his rank of captain to Bob Cryer. After playing some matches, the varsity managed to win one match and put on a good showing of spirit and ability in the others. Fred Stucky needs mentioning, as do Bob Pope and Welsh White for doing a good job on this year's team. We hope that the coming team will do their best to uphold the standing and good sportsmanship expressed by 55's Squash.

Golf - '55

The golf team, under the very able coaching of Mr. Linton, will try to regain the Inter-ac title which they lost last year. Starting with Peddie on April 16, a very rough schedule proceeds the Inter-ac matches. At the end of the season in June, is the famous faculty match. We are hoping that Captain Craig Harlan can lead his team to a successful season.

Tennis - '55

The 1955 varsity tennis team starts the season handicapped by the loss of all but one of its lettermen. The returning player, Bob Biberman, this year's captain, will play first singles. The team, under the able coaching of Mr. Osgood and Mr. Kenny, has hopes for victory in the spring matches. Penn Charter has an excellent league record in tennis, and the team will endeavor to show the same winning spirit that brought victory in the past.

SQUASH TEAM

Missing: Parker.

Back Row: Wattis, Barnes, Robson, Hoover, Lindenmeyr, Mr. Linton.

TENNIS TEAM

Front Row: Wolf, Weingartner, Birtwistle, Medary, Biberman, Stucky, Bachofer, Rich.
